Brussels Carbon Capture and Storage Summit 2009

Getting it Right for Copenhagen

Conference Overview

Forum Europe and Bellona Europa organised the Brussels Carbon Capture and Storage Summit 2009 exactly two months before the final negotiations on a post-Kyoto regime began in Copenhagen. Taking place on the 6th October at the Sofitel Europe, the conference was a great success, bringing together high-level speakers from Industry, NGO's and the EU institutions. They were joined by over 150 international delegates in debating the role CCS should play in the future EU and global energy landscapes, and how CCS should be positioned at and following Copenhagen.

The opening keynote address was provided by Jan Panek, Head of Unit for Coal and Oil within the European Commission's energy directorate, kindly replacing European Commissioner for Energy, Andris Piebalgs who was called away on mission shortly before the conference, while other notable speakers included Chris Davies MEP, Luc de Marliave, Climate Change Coordinator, Total, Sanjeev Kumar ETS Coordinator, WWF and Lars Stromberg VP R&D, Vattenfall.

Topics discussed at the conference included the funding options and the regulatory and legal obstacles that need to be overcome in order to further the implementation of CCS, the importance of public acceptance and confidence in CCS technology and the necessity of global cooperation and knowledge sharing in ensuring the engagement of other key global players in CCS.

This document provides an overview of the conference. For further details on the 2011 event taking place in on the 26th January at the Sofitel Brussels, please contact:
